In Memory of Dr Steve Andrews (1970 – 2009)

We are all deeply shocked by the untimely death of Dr Steve Andrews. Steve passed away in his sleep on Friday night at the age of 39. He is survived by his wife Lyndall and daughter Sarah.

After qualifying as a medical doctor from the University of Cape Town, Steve received a postgraduate degree in immunology at Groote Schuur hospital. He obtained the Fellowship in the South African College of Family Physicians in 1997 and held a Masters degree in Bioethics from the University of Cape Town. Since 1995, Steve was involved in the design and implementation of large HIV programmes in the public and private sectors. He ran a private HIV practice in Claremont focusing on the problems of multi-drug resistant ARV patients, as well as running multiple industry-sponsored as well as investigator-initiated clinical trial protocols.

He was a senior medical advisor for the Aid for AIDS program and a Bioethics consultant to the Medscheme's Solution ICU committee, as well as The Open Society Foundation, The Road Freight Association Roadside Clinic Programme and Médecins Sans Frontières Khayelitsha Antiretroviral Programme. Steve was an external lecturer for the Department of Health Sciences at the University of Stellenbosch, and a tutor for the WebCT HIV/TB/STI MMed (Family Medicine) programme. He was also an honorary senior lecturer in the Division of Infectious Diseases, Department of Medicine, at the University of Cape Town and a member of the Committee for Clinical Trials at the University of Stellenbosch. Steve was the principal investigator on more than 25 phase II and phase III ARV drug trials and was widely published in the HIV academic arena.

Steve was an executive member of the Southern African HIV Clinicians Society, as well as a member of the committee for the development of antiretroviral guidelines for treatment and post-exposure prophylaxis in the sub-Saharan Africa region. Steve was also an active participant in various campaigns to lower the price of ARV medication and took the lead in the fight to reduce the cost of Fluconazole, a vital drug for the treatment of Cryptococcus meningitis and thrush in people living with HIV.

His death is a tragic loss not only to the Society but the wider HIV and medical community. Steve was a passionate clinician and activist, and actively demonstrated his political commitment in the fight against HIV. He gave to his patients the utmost care and compassion. He had an exceptional sense of humour; was a loving friend, a gifted teacher and a great mentor. We have lost a remarkable HIV champion.

We extend our condolences to his family, friends, colleagues and patients. He will be sorely missed but long remembered.

Disability and HIV/AIDS in Southern Africa: Implications for Health Services

By Jill Hanass-Hancock PhD, Health Economics and HIV/AIDS Research Division

Although the disabling experiences of HIV have been previously documented, the fact that HIV&AIDS affects people with disabilities (PWDs) has only been given attention in recent years. Part of the lack of attention in the field is the assumption that PWDs are not at high risk for HIV infections because they are commonly believed to be asexual, not to use drugs or to be in danger of sexual exploitation or abuse (1-5). However, these beliefs are false (1, 6) (2, 7, 8).

People with physical, intellectual or sensory disabilities are as likely, if not more likely, to be at risk of HIV infection (6, 9). For example, the few prevalence studies that are available on the deaf population indicate that deaf people are as likely (10, 11) if not twice as likely (12, 13) to be infected with HIV as the general population.

However, people with disabilities have been largely ignored in HIV intervention prevention, treatment and care. In addition to myths about their behaviour and life experience, this is due to the lack of accessible health services and transport, insufficient training and negative attitudes of health professionals, lack of appropriate teaching material and information, and social isolation (9).

The first empirical survey in Southern Africa was conducted in Swaziland, as part of the global survey on HIV/AIDS and disability (4), and results appeared in 2005 (14). This survey was conducted with a random sample of 191 participants and compared the HIV knowledge of hearing and deaf people. This survey found that the deaf participants were aware of HIV but they were more likely to believe incorrectly that HIV was transmitted by acts such as kissing, hugging, touching and sharing dishes (14) ($p=0.05$). Studies since then have affirmed the results of that initial study. A study in Malawi, which included 341 people with a disability (15) two studies in South Africa, one with 16 physically disabled people (16) and one with 90 learners with mild intellectual disability (17), found that the participants had some, yet limited knowledge of HIV and AIDS.

Studies have also revealed that people with disabilities engage in sexual behaviour that puts them at risk of being infected with HIV (18). In Southern Africa, the Malawi study cited above revealed that 76% of the participants were sexual active (15). A Kenyan study (1706 deaf people) (19) showed that 89% of the participants were sexual active. A study in Uganda on women with disabilities, recorded that 263 (77%) of the 341 participants had been pregnant at least once in their lifetime (20).

These and other studies have also shown that people with disabilities are subjected to sexual abuse. 17% of the participants in the Malawi study had been forced into sexual intercourse at least once in their lifetime. Similarly, research in Lesotho (21), Swaziland (14), Zimbabwe (7), Mozambique (22) and South Africa (2, 3, 5) indicates a high incidence of sexual abuse. Furthermore, there are indications that PWDs, irrespective of whether they have been abused, are less able to gain access to treatment and care than non-disabled people (4, 7, 18, 23-25). The Malawi study revealed that only 10% of the participants had ever visited a VCT centre (Volunteer Counselling and Testing). Stigma and inaccessibility of services were mentioned as main obstacles and expressed in various ways. For instance, many health facilities do not provide ramps or lifts, have no information or medical packaging available in Braille and have no sign interpreters for the deaf. The case of the South African activist John Maltese illustrates this: being deaf he did not receive counselling or any other form of explanation after an HIV test because the doctors and nurses did not engage sign interpreters or thought to use written text (26).

Recommendations for medical services:

Structural:

A primary need is to improve physical access to health facilities for PWDs. This implies that clinics and hospitals should have ramps and lifts where necessary. While is often not a feasible option in resource poor settings, innovative approaches have been suggested: for example, in double or multiple storey buildings, locating the administration offices on the upper floors and essential health services such as Maternal and Child health care and VCT services on the ground floor. Low cost innovations include providing Braille texts or tapes with information about HIV/AIDS, posters that use sign language illustrations, and tents to complement caravan mobile clinics for use by patients in wheel chairs.

Health professionals:

Skills of health care professionals have to be developed; for example training in sign language at VCT centres. The innovation at a site in Kenya, in which deaf peer counsellors were used, proved to be successful (10, 27). A basic need is for health professional to respect the privacy of PWDs. All too often family members or an assistant are addressed during clinical visits at the same time as, or rather than the disabled patient.

Medication:

The way medication is prescribed and explained is a critical factor that affects PWD's adherence to treatment. People with intellectual disabilities, for example, often do not understand instructions on when to take different types of medication. The challenge can be resolved by reference to occasions such as sunrise or sunset, mealtimes or even the times of popular TV programmes, and where feasible should be drawn onto the medicine packaging. Likewise, the packaging of medication and condoms should include Braille imprints.

As importantly, training is required for nurses and doctors on effective education of PWDs with regard to possible side effects of anti-retroviral drugs and possible complications when used in conjunction with medication for disabilities (e.g. epilepsy).

The interface of disability and HIV/AIDS is inspiring new questions and solutions in Africa. In Kenya, the NGO, Liverpool VSO (Volunteer Service Overseas), is providing VCT sites for deaf people using deaf peer counsellors (10, 27). The regional organization, DHAT (Disability HIV and AIDS Trust), is piloting VCT for PWD in Zambia and Malawi and seeks to motivate governments to implement their approach more broadly (28). In South Africa the NGO, Create (www.create-cbr.co.za), is launching specialized training for VCT counsellors in an attempt to make VCT sites accessible for PWDs. Some of the programmes have had initial success (10, 27) but, currently there is much experimentation in the search for effective approaches and solutions. Nonetheless, these innovative interventions show already that inclusion of PWDs in HIV/AIDS service delivery is achievable in resource-limited settings and that a significant barrier is actually ignorance and prejudice: it prevents health professionals from reaching an extremely marginalised population in Africa.

Course Name	Course Dates	City/town	Cost (VAT Incl)
HIV/AIDS Management Course: Given the current state of knowledge on HIV/AIDS management and the fact that anti-retroviral therapy is becoming more affordable, it is now feasible to approach HIV/AIDS as a chronic medical condition. This course will empower clinicians to adequately manage patients with HIV and or AIDS.
HIV/AIDS Management Course	8-9 Aug 2009	Pretoria	R 3,000.00
HIV/AIDS Management Course	25-27 Sept 2009	Cape Town	R 3,000.00
HIV/AIDS Management Course	2-4 Oct 2009	Durban	R 3,000.00
HIV/AIDS Management Course	9-11 Oct 2009	Free State	R 3,000.00
HIV/AIDS Management Course	21-22 Nov 2009	Mpumalanga	R 3,000.00
HIV/AIDS Management Course	1-3 Dec 2009	PTA	R 3,000.00
HIV/AIDS Management Course	3-5 Dec 2009	Cape Town	R 3,000.00
HIV/AIDS Refresher Seminar: HIV/AIDS is an ever-evolving discipline and with ARV drugs becoming more affordable, health professionals therefore need to stay abreast with the latest developments. The Foundation for Professional Development, in association with the Southern African HIV Clinician Society, developed this one-day refresher seminar which is targeted at alumni who successfully completed the 3-Day HIV/AIDS Management Course. We encourage all our alumni who completed the 3-day course to enrol on this refresher course so that they have access to the most recent evidence-based information on drugs and the management of HIV/AIDS patients.
HIV/AIDS Refresher Seminar	5-Nov-09	Cape Town	R 1,300.00
HIV/AIDS Refresher Seminar	1-Dec-09	Durban	R 1,300.00
Paediatric HIV/AIDS Management Course: Children with HIV/AIDS are dying unnecessarily because of a lack of access to ARV treatment. The problems arise mainly from a lack of cheap feasible diagnostic tests for children under 18 months, lack of trained health personnel and the affordable child-friendly ARV drugs. Simplified treatment guidelines coupled with a range of fixed-dose combinations of ARVs that require only one or two pills twice a day make it easier to treat HIV/AIDS in adults, but development of simplified drugs for children lags behind. Despite WHO simplified treatment guidelines that specify which drugs to use in children, countries have difficulty in getting simple and affordable combinations of the drugs. Two generic fixed-dose combinations should enter clinical trials this year, and there are frighteningly few second-line ARV drugs available for children in countries with large numbers of infected children.
Paediatric HIV/AIDS Management Course	2-4 Oct 2009	PTA	R 3,200.00
Clinical and Ethical Refresher Course for GP's: The Clinical and Ethical Refresher Seminar is designed to offer a unique learning experience by combining clinical and ethical issues in an effort to help general practitioners to update their skills and knowledge in specific areas. Most healthcare professionals have limited time available to attend clinical programmes. Furthermore, attending individual courses is costly and may be time consuming. The FPD Summer Academy therefore intends to offer healthcare professionals an opportunity to get away, save time and money, gain CPD points for attending this learning experience and get the best of what FPD has to offer.

Internet-based Discussion Groups

The Society currently operates three extremely successful internet based discussion groups:

- Paediatric Discussion Group (Manager/Moderator: Dr Leon Levin): Assists healthcare professionals to resolve HIV-related clinical problems through the use of case studies. Difficult and/or interesting cases are e-mailed to group members. Members may respond if they wish and their responses are emailed to all participants. Once a case has been fully discussed, opinions are usually sought from overseas and local experts. To join please send your e-mail address to Dr Leon Levin: leonlevin@54.co.za

- Adult HIV Discussion Group (Manager/Moderator: Dr Francesca Conradie): "Don't you ever long for those days when you had time to discuss difficult and interesting cases. Remember when working in a hospital setting you had time to attend M&M meetings. But now, you have a very busy schedule and other things have taken up your attention like practice management and debt collection. We have formulated this case discussion format so in the few minutes that you have to spare in a week for academic pursuit you can access the latest case study. You will have an opportunity to put in your opinion. You can even send me some of your difficult cases and when the time is right I will post them. All you need to do is to send me your name, surname and email address and I will include you on the list."

If you wish to join this discussion group, please send your first name, surname and email address to: adghiv@witshealth.co.za
- HIV Policy and Ethics Discussion Group (Manager: Ms Marlise Richter): The Discussion Group was launched in October 2006 and currently has over 300 subscribers. Case studies include topics such as the ethics of AIDS funding, HIV in the military, HIV testing, treatment in prisons and Dual Loyalty. To subscribe, please send your name, surname and e-mail address to Marlise at: ethics.policy@gmail.com
